

COURSE TITLE: TEACHING PORTLAND'S HISTORY

WA CLOCK HRS: 30

NO. OF CREDITS: 3 QUARTER CREDITS
[semester equivalent = 2.00 credits]

OREGON PDUs: 30

PENNSYLVANIA ACT 48: 30

INSTRUCTOR: Peter Chausse

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

When William Overton and Asa Lovejoy paddled down the Willamette River in 1844, Overton decided that an open area called, 'The Clearing', would make a good town site. This was the beginning of Portland. Today, 'The Clearing' has been transformed into Tom McCall Waterfront Park, and Portland has become a beautiful, vibrant and diversified city. In this class, you will explore Portland's colorful history, tracing its growth and development from a Wild West town containing dozens of saloons and brothels, to the more refined Portland of today. Along the way, you will examine the people and places that shaped this city and you will develop ways to make Portland's history really come alive for your students.

Through a combination of historical readings, museum visits, and self-guided walks through downtown Portland, you will discover the city's colorful past, examine the progression of architecture, urban parks, and historical landmarks. Most importantly, you'll develop lots of ideas for teaching historical Portland to your K-12 students.

Working closely with you, the instructor will help design lessons for classroom use that will maximize student learning. The instructor can also show you how to implement fun and educational field trips that focus on the lives of Portland's pioneers and their impact on our lives today.

The Co-Instructor for this course is Jake Gordon, M.S. Ed.

LEARNING OUTCOMES: Upon completion of this course, participants will have:

1. How to teach Portland history, from its beginnings in the 1840's up through the present.
2. How to locate informative resources that will bring Portland's past to life for students of all ages.
3. How to lead informative class field trips that include visits to historical sites and landmarks.
4. To enhance historical learning through museum and cemetery visits in Downtown Portland area.
5. Dozens of ideas for integrating the study of historical Portland with other academic areas.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR TEACHING THIS COURSE:

Peter Chausse, B.S. is a former elementary school teacher, who has specialized in teaching his students about trees, plants, urban parks and natural areas.

Before beginning his teaching career, Peter earned a degree in Forestry from the University of Maine. His training included coursework in Dendrology (tree identification), Forest Management and wood product usage.

In the early 1980's, Peter worked for the U.S. Forest Service in the state of Washington, where he focused on tree identification and scientific observations. Since 1994, Peter has taught a course through The Heritage Institute titled, 'Studying Portland's Trees' During the course, participants learn how to recognize several dozen tree species as they explore Portland's parks and historic neighborhoods on foot. Ideas for the integration of tree study with math, art, science, literature, writing and social studies activities are presented and discussed.

Peter has had a lifelong love of trees, and is eager to help you acquire more tree knowledge. He is also dedicated to helping you bring this information to your students in fun and meaningful ways.

Co-Instructor:

Melissa Juska, M.L.S., has worked in elementary education since 2013 as an art teacher and school librarian. She holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts, a Master of Library and Information Studies, and teaching certifications in PreK-12 Visual Arts, Library Media, and Integrated Science. In 2016, she joined the Master Naturalist volunteer program to pass on her knowledge and love of the natural world through citizen science, outreach, and community service. Melissa is excited to share her passion for nature, art, and education with teachers and their students.
